

_Psalm 30:5 says, “For His anger endureth but a moment; in His favor is life: weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning.

A siege against one’s life or destiny is highly undesirable and can come from both known and unforeseen causes. While a siege may or may not be avoidable, it can certainly be overcome and vanquished completely by the immersion of one’s life in the divine. Being freed from, and sustaining the absence of, a siege is by intentionally and conscientiously dwelling in the secret place of the Most High and abiding under the shadow of the Almighty..._
